

Person specification: Wildlife Researcher and Trade Analyst

Essential

Language

- Excellent written and verbal fluency in Vietnamese and English languages

Knowledge

- Educated to degree level in a relevant field such as communications; journalism; law / public policy; science

Skills

- Proven research skills. Experience in conducting research and analysis with a large amount of technical / complex information and data
- Proven written communication skills. Experience of summarising complex policy or technical research and analysis into concise materials for different target audiences in both English and Vietnamese languages
- Proven verbal communication and advocacy skills
- Proven experience in using social media channels for appropriate messaging and communications
- Ability to work independently with strong time-management and organisation skills, with attention to detail
- Works well in a team
- Experience of building and maintaining effective working relationships with diverse external contacts

Other attributes

- Legal right to work in the UK
- Prepared to travel outside the UK at short notice

Desirable

- Working knowledge or fluency in at least one of the following languages: Chinese, French, Portuguese
- Work experience in campaigning / research / media / communications sector
- Experience in addressing conservation or illegal wildlife trade issues